Filmmaker behind space-junk hoax

► Local convinced many that pieces of dead satellite rained down on Okotoks ► Debris believed to have landed in Pacific Ocean

JEREMY NOLAIS
@METRONEWS.CA

Borrowing from a staged radio drama bought by many, a Calgary filmmaker perpetrated a space-junk hoax that sparked worldwide attention over the weekend.

Sebastian Salazar was watching his Twitter feed fill with discussion of NASA's dying Upper Atmosphere Research Satellite (UARS) shortly before midnight Friday.

An anomaly over Okotoks on one weather image sparked speculation that debris from the 6.5-ton craft could land in the city south of Calgary.

One particular tweet expressing fear that aliens could be living in the satellite caught Salazar's attention, reminding him of Orson Welles' fake 1938 radio broadcast War of the Worlds, which led many to believe aliens had landed.

He pulled transcripts from the broadcast and began tweeting them out as live events occurring on a farm in the Okotoks area.

"People weren't even checking for legitimacy anymore," Salazar said yesterday. "I started putting in quotes directly from the play and it kind of spun off from there."

To provide proof of the debris, Salazar gathered some tubing and a piece of scrap metal from his family's camper and went into the alley behind his northeast Calgary home to snap a photo.

"I thought it looked terrible, but some people still bought it," he said.

RCMP fielded numerous international calls Saturday, some reportedly from as far away as Japan, about the crash landing but no debris was found in Okotoks, confirmed spokesperson Tim Taniguchi.

He said Salazar likely won't face reprimand for his actions, despite some expressing outrage over the hoax online.

"It didn't cause police to enter into an investigation, so, as far as I can see, there is no criminal offence," Taniguchi said.

Candidate promises free insulin pumps

At least one candidate in the ongoing race to become Alberta premier is pledging free access to insulin pumps for diabetics.

Gary Mar issued a release yesterday stating that, if elected, he would add the pumps to the list of publicly insured health services.

The Canadian Diabetes Association released a report earlier this month that found Alberta has the fastest-growing rate of diabetes in Canada but does not publicly fund insulin pumps like some other provinces. ● METRO

Two dead after crash with truck

Two Sylvan Lake men are dead following a head-on collision with a five-tonne truck near the town Saturday night, RCMP said.

The incident occurred at the intersection of Highway 11 and Highway 781 around 9 p.m.

RCMP are still investigating the matter but have determined a Hyundai carrying the now-deceased passengers was headed east when it collided with the truck. The drivers of both the Hyundai and truck suffered non-life-threatening injuries. The names of the deceased are not being released, RCMP said. ● METRO

► Sporting a set of hot wheels, Lacombe Chihuahua Duke, seen here in this recent photo, remains a feisty little guy, according to his owners.

Coyote and hawk attacks can't stop this pup

- Two-year-old Duke is paralyzed, needs a new home
- Edmonton woman working tirelessly to aid animal

JEREMY NOLAÏS
@METRONEWS.CA

Despite suffering through multiple traumas in his young life, one Alberta dog in need of a new home keeps on rolling — literally.

Duke, a two-year-old Chihuahua living in Lacombe, Alberta, was attacked and dragged by a coyote last year, according to owner Valerie Parish.

His back legs were paralyzed, and surgery costs to repair the injury were projected to be $10,000.

Unable to afford the procedure, Parish's husband went to work constructing a device that would allow Duke to wheel around using only his front legs.

Today, he is as active as ever, Parish says.

"He's a cuddle bum," she added with a laugh. "He loves to be held always, loves kisses."

Not everything has been easy for Duke, however. In the months following the initial attack, a hawk sensing the Chihuahua's weakness swooped in and unsuccessfully attempted to carry him away.

Duke requires a great deal more care than an average dog, something Parish and her husband simply cannot provide. They are now looking for new owners and have received some gracious help from an Edmonton woman.

Carol Gallant saw Duke's story on Kijiji and was reminded of a Yorkie she lost

Oilsands protesters prepare for battle

► Demonstrators receive tips on how to handle confrontation with authorities on Parliament Hill

Protesters were already filing into Ottawa yesterday for a showdown with the federal government over its support for the oilsands and a plan to build a giant pipeline from Alberta to Texas.

After the high-profile arrest of celebrities and about a thousand activists in Washington last month for their attempts to stop approval of the Keystone XL pipeline, Greenpeace and other groups hope to gain similar notoriety in Canada with a civil disobedience protest on Parliament Hill today.

Stars to attend

Stars such as Gordon Pinsent, musician David Biddi and indigenous celebrity Tantoo Cardinal are expected.

► Already the plans for a sit-in have had a polarizing effect, with both Prime Minister Stephen Harper and Natural Resources Minister Joe Oliver making a point of defending the pipeline late last week.

► Environmentalists fear that spills would lead to irreversible damage.

Scientists against seal-cull plan

Two of Canada's leading marine biologists and a conservation group say a five-year proposal to slaughter 140,000 grey seals in the southern Gulf of St. Lawrence is being driven by politics, not science.

"I don't support it," said Hal Whitehead, a professor at Dalhousie University in Halifax. "From what I've seen of the rationale, it doesn't make much sense to me."

Boris Worm, a Dalhousie biology professor said former fisheries minister Gail Shea had said a cull was a good idea in 2009, and federal scientists have since been pushed to justify that decision.

Saudi women get right to vote

► Women can vote, run as candidates for first time in history ► Reforms seen as giant step toward equality

HASSAN AMMAR/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Saudi King Abdullah announced yesterday that the nation's women will gain the right to vote and run as candidates in local elections to be held in 2015, in a major advancement for the rights of women in the deeply conservative Muslim kingdom.

In an annual speech before his advisory assembly, or Shura Council, the Saudi monarch said he ordered the step after consulting with the nation's top religious clerics, whose advice carries great weight in the kingdom.

"We refuse to marginalize the role of women in Saudi society and in every aspect, within the rules of Sharia," Abdullah said, referring to the Islamic law that governs many aspects of life in the kingdom.

The kingdom's great oil wealth and generous handouts to citizens have largely insulated it from the unrest sweeping the Arab world. But the king has taken steps to quiet rumblings of discontent that largely centred on the eastern oil-producing region populated by the country's Shiite Muslim minority.

Abdullah said the changes announced yesterday would also allow women to be appointed to the Shura Council, the advisory body selected by the king that is currently all male.

The kingdom will hold its next municipal elections on Thursday, but women will not be able to vote or run in those contests.

President Mahmoud Abbas received a hero's welcome yesterday from thousands of cheering, flag-waving Palestinians, having made a bid for UN recognition that appears destined to fail but has allowed him to finally step out of the shadow of his iconic predecessor Yasser Arafat.

The crowd, many of them holding posters of Abbas, repeatedly chanted his name as he spoke. Abbas was uncharacteristically animated, shaking his hands, and charming the crowd with references to "my brothers and sisters."

Abbas' call on Friday for the UN to recognize Palestinian independence has transformed him in the eyes of many Palestinians from grey bureaucrat to champion of their rights.

Though Israel and the U.S. oppose the move and consider it a step back for long-stalled peace talks, it could help Abbas overcome internal struggles and gain the support he will need to get a deal through one day.

He cautioned that the

U.S. vows to veto request

The U.S., as a member of the Security Council, has already promised to veto the request if the Palestinians can muster the nine votes needed for passage — which itself is far from certain.

If that happens, the Palestinians say they will seek enhanced observer status from the General Assembly, as a “nonmember state.” Passage is virtually guaranteed, but this would be largely symbolic.

The Palestinians believe an international stamp of approval of a Palestine in the 1967 lines would bolster their negotiating position in the future.

► Rachael Pletz, right, holds up a sign as she and others participate in a march organized by Occupy Wall Street on Saturday in New York City.

Arrests at Wall Street protest

► Charges include disorderly conduct and resisting arrest, police said ► Protest enters its second week

About 80 people were arrested Saturday as demonstrators who were camped out near the New York Stock Exchange marched through lower Manhattan, police said.

The Occupy Wall Street protest is entering its second week. Demonstrators said Saturday they were protesting against bank bailouts and the mortgage crisis; some also held signs decrying Georgia's execution of Troy Davis, who was put to death last Wednesday for the 1989 slaying of an off-duty Savannah police officer.

At Manhattan's Union Square, police tried to corral the demonstrators using orange plastic netting. Some of the arrests were filmed and activists posted the videos online. One video appears to show officers using pepper spray on women who already were cordoned off; another shows officers handcuffing a man after pulling him up off the ground, blood trickling down his face.

Police say the arrests were mostly for blocking traffic. Charges include disorderly conduct and resisting arrest. But one demonstrator was charged with assaulting a police officer. Police say the officer involved suffered a shoulder injury.

Protest spokesman Patrick Bruner criticized the police response as "exceedingly violent" and said the demonstrators sought to remain peaceful.

Police had no comment about the videos or the arrests. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Resistance to banking reform taken to task

Canada's Mark Carney waded into the touchy and controversial issues facing the American financial system yesterday, dismissing concerns — or excuses — about banking reform.

Speaking at a financial convention in Washington, the Bank of Canada governor gave a spirited defence of new international rules, and chided resisters as misconceived or fatalistic.

He noted that such thinking led to abuses and excessive risk-taking that resulted in the recent collapse of the system, leading to a global recession still haunting economies today.

Carney's speech to the Institute of International Finance follows two days of meetings in which global policy-makers grappled with the recession's consequences and sought measures to prevent another.

► Carney

ures to prevent another.

Canada, along with the U.S. and some non-euro-zone countries, applied pressure on European leaders to commit to an expanded emergency fund.

Carney suggested the fund should be about one trillion euros, more than twice the commitment. He added that it should not be forgotten what got the world into such a mess.

"Indeed, at a time when the conviction of policy-makers across a range of issues is being called into question, there appears to be little value in feeding this concern."

Without specifically mentioning the U.S., which is regarded as the most resistant of major economies to the new rules, Carney tried to shoot down the key objections to reform one by one.

He reserved his scorn for what he called the most often cited objection — that the uncertainty about proposed new requirements for greater bank capital reserves is already drying up credit and contributing to the current economic weakness.

He pointed out that it is a far greater probability that credit has slowed not because of a reluctance to lend, but because would-be borrowers can't afford more debt.

Lending rate key for Canada: Economists

The latest round of turmoil on the global financial markets is threatening the Canadian economic recovery once again, but this time economists say Ottawa's ability to respond is more limited with the books in deficit and interest rates already near record lows.

While Canada is in better shape than its G7 counterparts, it is not clear how much domestic policy can offset the problems in the U.S. and Europe.

TD Bank chief economist Craig Alexander said the first line of defence is the Bank of Canada and its key lending rate. "Canada has the advantage of being able to lower interest rates unlike the United States, where the Federal Reserve already has rates at zero," he said.

Merchant fights for asbestos

A prominent asbestos merchant is headed to Parliament Hill as part of a broader counter-offensive to salvage the reputation of his beleaguered industry.

Baljit Chadha is fighting back this week after Canada's asbestos sector has absorbed a public-relations pummeling, both here and abroad, in recent months.

The public-relations battle comes at a critical time.

The Quebec government is considering whether to help Chadha save one of Canada's last two asbestos mines, in the town of Asbestos, with an Oct. 1 deadline looming.

Chadha is now determined to dispel what he describes as myths about the contentious mineral, which he argues has been unfairly vilified by a highly organized "anti-asbestos lobby."

Chadha plans face-to-face meetings today with his most vocal critics, including New Democrat MP Pat Martin.

Boeing delivered its first 787 jet yesterday.

The new jet, which was supposed to be flying passengers three years ago, was delayed by production and design problems. Airlines expect it to offer travellers more comfort, open up new routes and provide significant fuel savings.

Airlines love the jet, which Boeing calls the Dreamliner. They've ordered more than 800, well above levels for previous new jets. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LET'S TAKE A VOTE: PUBLIC OR PRIVATE HEALTH CARE?

URBAN COMPASS

JANICE PASKEY
METRO CALGARY

It's the only vote that matters, says a friend.

That one vote is for the leader of the Progressive Conservative party in Alberta.

That person gets to be premier.

So is it OK to buy a membership to vote for the next PC leader Oct. 1 if you're not a conservative? We determined it is.

But consider this: Alberta's biggest budget item is health care. So I looked up poll favourite Gary Mar's platform on health care, both on video and online.

There's no mention of private care at all. That's good.

When I consider my family's dental bills and eyeglasses costs and U.S. bankruptcies because of medical bills, I'm afraid of private health care.

In an ad flyer for private Calgary clinic Pivotal, Dr. Donovan Kreutzer says, "It's not just an option for the wealthy."

So a $3,600 to $3,900 yearly adult fee isn't for the wealthy?

That kind of language makes me nervous.

I know people who pay for private clinics. They are rich, not surprisingly. They like them.

The affluent are a small percentage of the population, yet influential. They generously donate to hospitals and to research that serves everyone.

Will we get that if the affluent have opted out?

That private-care ad supplement also cites a "ticking time bomb" for wait times and includes fear-mongering statistics.

Yet the Pivotal clinic bills the public health system and any other private-employer insurance for services.

Consider this: It costs $112,000 yearly to educate one medical student at U of C. Of that, $98,000 is chipped in by the taxpayer every year.

Will private doctors refund the public purse for their $300,000 plus tuition subsidy? You tell me. Further, the investment comes with freedom to leave and work anywhere.

No system is perfect. I'm sure medical staff feel they are worth more.

I'd like to see our next premier carefully weigh the advantages of public and private care without ideological rhetoric. Without bowing to private interests.

With medical care, we make a collective bet. If there's an upside to private care for every Albertan, let's see it.

If the public system fails most of us, let's figure out what it can do and what it can't.

That's why I think it's worth it for all Calgarians to pay $5 for a membership, vote for the PC leader and demand clear details about health care.

Don't have a condom? You could try this

On the occasion of World Contraception Day, Metro sat down with Prof. Robert Jütte, author of the book Contraception: A history, to talk about the history of contraception.

Egyptian style. "In ancient Egypt, crocodile dung was used as a pessary. It sounds weird and revolting, but now we know that it's not as crazy as one might think as some of the ingredients change the pH value in the vagina to create a bad environment for the sperm."

Smooth condoms. "The first undisputed description of the condom — done by 16th-century Italian physician Gabriele Falloppio — mentioned it was made of cloth. This type did not feel very sensitive at all. In comparison, for a very smooth condom material, animal intestines or a fish's air bladder were used."

Ancient Rome. "Believe it or not, people did wear amulets like they do talismans as a means of contraception. Worn around the neck, these amulets contained ingredients we would describe as complete nonsense for a contraceptive."

Myths. "I once read in a British opinion poll that some women thought that by simply closing your eyes you can avoid conception. Other old-lady 'recipes' include washing after intercourse."

Peters dares to dream

► Comedian Russell Peters takes on the big screen in Breakaway ► Film about an Indo-Canadian hockey team a broader story of a regular guy with a dream

SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Russell Peters may have mastered the comedy stage by selling out concerts (including Madison Square Gardens) around the globe but conquering Hollywood has taken a bit longer.

"The challenge for me has been getting the right roles," explained the Toronto native recently. "I've been offered a ton of (movie parts) but do I want to play the 7-11 guy or the taxi guy? Hence my movie career has been slower than most."

Things may be changing for the man who has sold hundreds of thousands of his comedy DVDs. Now co-starring in this Friday's release of Breakaway, Peters has found his place in what's likely the first-ever film about an Indo-Canadian hockey team.

"I'd like to say that I was the seed for (Breakaway) because I used to do a joke about an all-Indian hockey team," said Peters. "I used to do a joke about the Toronto Maple Sikhs and (writer and star Vinay Virmani) even told me that's what gave him the idea for writing this film."

It's an obvious point of pride for Peters, even if playing Canada's national sport isn't.

"I can't stand the game," said Peters. "There's a whole generation of Indo-Canadians that grew up loving hockey. I would go out and say I'm very much in the minority for not liking hockey."

Instead, Peters offers that he related to the film's central story about a striving first-generation Sikh athlete who must deal with issues of family and identity in discovering his life's ambition.

"It's really about the immigrant experience and it just happens to circle around this particular group," said Peters.

"But it's the same story for every first generationer. And even if you're not a first-generation immigrant family, you can still relate to it — it's about a guy with a dream."

All My Children leaves TV

► TV execs consider soaps a losing cause, more costly to produce than talk or reality shows and with a dwindling audience ► Show may continue online

Tissues were on hand but there were few tears among two dozen soap opera fans gathered to watch All My Children sign off from ABC on Friday after more than 40 years.

That's because the screen faded to black with a gunshot and a cliffhanger — an indication that the story may not be dead, even if the television series is.

ABC has licensed the story to a production company that is hoping to keep the All My Children going online after the first of next year.

Carolyn Hinsey, author of Afternoon Delight: Why Soaps Still Matter, organized a watching party at a Manhattan sports bar as a message to television executives who apparently think soap operas don't matter anymore.

Two of ABC's three daytime dramas, All My Children and One Life to Live, were cancelled this year.

That leaves only four soaps on network television, with General Hospital the only one on ABC when One Life to Live formally leaves in a few months.

"The soap fans are still

The big ending

► The final episode ended with most of the show's characters together for a party — celebrating engagements, a pregnancy and some medical miracles.

► Suspense: The series ended as he fired. Left unseen was who, if anyone, J.R. shot — homage, perhaps, to the famous 1980 Dallas cliffhanger that became known as Who Shot J.R.?

there," said Marie White, who drove in from Baltimore for the party. "It's just that Nielsen doesn't count them."

Nielsen, the television ratings company, doesn't count White. She keeps up with her favourites online these days.

Partygoers booed loudly when ABC ran a commercial for The Chew, the cooking show that will replace All My Children next week.

They saved their loudest cheer for when Erica

Kane, the soap's most memorable character, portrayed by Susan Lucci, learned she would not get married again — at least not yet.

She saved her final words on television for a promise to keep pursuing her beau even after he told her to have a nice life — without him.

Some of the final episode's dialogue felt more like actors talking to viewers, or television executives, than as part of the story.

One example was when actress Debbi Morgan spoke soon after her blind character, Angie Hubbard, had her sight restored.

"One day our family and friends will be gone and they won't be back," she said. "They'll be gone for good. What if that day were today?"

He 'affects me to my core'

MACALL B. POLAY/HBO/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

As an actor, Jack Huston works wonders with just half a face, a gravelly, flat voice and cruel difficulty speaking.

Fortunately, those afflictions aren't his but instead are borne by Richard Harrow, the tragically disfigured World War I veteran he plays on the HBO drama Boardwalk Empire.

Let the record show that, in a recent interview, the 28-year-old Huston is leading-man handsome, expansive and well-spoken in his native British accent.

But he says Harrow is a character "that is part of me, who affects me to my core. There is something so affecting about how brave and how lost he is."

Even with limited screen time on the character-packed, actor-rich Boardwalk (whose ensemble includes Steve Buscemi, Kelly Macdonald, Gretchen Mol, Dabney Coleman and many more), Harrow last year had a similarly wrenching effect on viewers, haunting them as a combat-maimed conscience in his post-war America and as the ghoulish psychopath a war creates.

The series returned for its new season yesterday, with Huston upgraded from recurring player to a regular cast member, while his character promises to be even more galvanizing as a figure of both pathos and dread.

"The character took on a life of his own," says Huston, and, however tormented such a life might be, "that's nice."

Lindsay's in a relationship — let the drama begin

► Actress is reportedly seeing a New York hotel magnate
 ► Rumour has it that she and his wife haven't really hit it off

Lindsay Lohan is reportedly clashing with her rumoured new boyfriend's estranged wife, according to the New York Post.

Lohan is said to be dating New York hotel magnate Vikram Chatwal and even staying at his house, though she was reportedly instructed to make herself scarce before Chatwal's wife, Priya Sachdev, got back to town.

A miffed Lohan then reportedly confronted Chat-wal at a dinner he was hosting at his hotel.

"Priya was very dignified, but Lindsay was so rude," a source tells the newspaper.

"She acted as if she'd had no idea Vikram was married and tried to make it clear that Vikram was her friend. Others had to step in to calm things down."

Lohan's rep insists the two are not romantically involved.

Is Sarah Palin a bad mom?

▶ A new book alleges so
▶ Parenting expert Tanith Carey shares what moms should do if they're faced with similar situations

▶ Sarah Palin

GETTY IMAGES

The Rogue, a controversial new book by journalist Joe McGinniss, paints Sarah Palin, the former Alaskan governor, as a coke-snorting, sexually loose harri-dan. It's unflattering, especially for a mother of five.

We shared some of the most-headline-making accusations with Tanith Carey, a family expert, journalist and author of Where Has My Little Girl Gone? Moms out there might find themselves in similar situations. What should they do?

Palin may have done drugs in the past

SAYS CAREY: "If you did take drugs, explain they always carry the danger that they can make you behave in a way that is out of control, could earn you a criminal record or ruin your career. They also carry the risk of addiction. Explain why and how you made the decision to stop taking them — and make it clear what your attitude is to them now."

She may have had an affair while married

... allegedly with her husband's business partner, although all parties have denied this.

SAYS CAREY: "Children

have keen antennae and it's very likely they have already guessed there is something wrong, so be honest. Don't try and justify it — or get them to see your partner as the villain. Expect to face a lot of anger if you are the person who cheated in a marriage, as kids will see it as an abandonment of them, as well as your spouse. But keep them talking."

She may have been sexually promiscuous

... allegedly with Miami Heat basketball star Glen Rice.

SAYS CAREY: "If you are asked about your sexual history, the best policy is to be truthful and tell them about your own experiences in an age appropriate way. But also underline how important sex is at its best as part of a meaningful long-term relationship. Explain that it's never a good idea to use sex to validate yourself or fix an insecurity — as it rarely works."

She would reportedly leave her kids to "fend for themselves"

One source reportedly tells McGinniss: "I'd walk into that kitchen and Bristol and Willow would be sitting there with a burnt pot of Kraft mac and cheese on the stove ... and Sarah would be up in her bedroom with the door closed say-

"If you are asked about your sexual history, the best policy is to be truthful."

ing she didn't want to be disturbed."

SAYS CAREY: "Of all the accusations, this is potentially the most damaging. It is at the serious end of spectrum of accusations that are levelled against mothers. As such, it's also most likely to cause the most long-term damage to the parent-child relationship because it implies neglect, which goes against all we expect from parents. In Palin's case, it would very much depend on how often this happened and how old her kids were at the time — and what the risks to them were. But we do live in a society where mothers are expected to wait on kids hand and foot from the tweens and beyond — and that is not good for their independence or self-esteem. Mothers also need to be able to acknowledge that they need down-time too."

► Serve a snack kids love — but without all the fat and calories

This recipe is fast, easy, and it replicates a convenience food your kids will love, and that you can feel good about.

Preparation:

1 Heat oven to broil. In a small saute pan over medium heat, cook sausage until cooked through, using a wooden spoon or spatula to break it into crumbles as it cooks. Drain off any fat.

2 In a medium bowl, mix zucchini, mozzarella, marinara, basil and cooked sausage. Place flattened bread on a work surface. Spoon zucchini mixture evenly in middle of each piece of bread. Fold one corner of each slice to opposite corner and seal edges by pressing with a fork.

MATTHEW MEAD/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ingredients:

- 1 link raw Italian turkey sausage, casing removed (about 125 g/4 oz)
- 1 small zucchini, coarsely shredded
- 60 g (2 oz) fresh mozzarella cheese, coarsely shredded
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) no-salt, no-sugar, fat-free marinara sauce
- 12 leaves fresh basil, torn into bite-size pieces
- 8 slices whole-wheat bread, flattened with a rolling pin
- Extra-virgin olive oil cooking spray

Trim off excess crust.

3 Place pockets on a baking sheet. Lightly spray both sides of each pocket with olive oil cooking spray. Place on a rack 10 to 12 cm (4 to 5 inches) under broiler and broil until browned and crisp, 2 to 3 minutes. Flip each pocket and then brown other side under broiler, 1 to 2 minutes more. Makes 4 servings (2 pockets per serving).

► Experts say that leaving your leaves on the lawn is actually good for the health of your grass and trees.

Leaving it alone

► Find out why it's better to not get rid of your leaves by bagging them

BEN KNIGHT
GREEN@METRONews.CA

Welcome to autumn. The leaves are changing, and soon lawns and yards across Canada will be covered with an eye-catching tapestry of orange, red and yellow — that will have to be raked up.

Or will it? Leaves are organic. They degrade into rich, useful compost and fertilizer. What happens if we all just ... leave the leaves?

"The biggest problem is, if the leaves are big, say from a maple tree, they can suffocate the lawn," says garden expert Jeff Mason, a frequent contributor to Canadian Gardening and other magazines.

In your city

What to do with your leaves

► Leaves The City of Calgary composts the fallen leaves it collects, using the mate-

"Usually what we do with leaves like that is run the lawnmower over them, so they get all chopped up. And then they just stay on the lawn, or they can go into the garden."

No raking, no bags — and especially no hauling them off to the local landfill.

"Something in the neighbourhood of 40 per cent of the nutrients that a tree produces in a year are in those leaves that we rake up and throw away," says Mason. "If we just allowed the leaves to stay on the ground, or in the garden bed, this is what feeds and fertilizes trees in nature — their falling leaves."

material to fertilize and enrich soil in the city's parks and public green spaces. This reduces greenhouse gases released when any organic material is broken down in a landfill. And overall helps the environment.

If you happen to like raking, you can also compost leaves by simply making a big pile of them at the back of your yard. They'll rot down over the winter, and be ready to nourish your grass, trees and plants come spring. And they won't even smell bad!

"It's nothing more than the smell of walking through the woods, kicking up leaves," Mason notes.

Compare that to the cost — in money, labour, time and gasoline — of municipal pick-up and composting programs. Your fall leaves are — with little or no effort — free fertilizer for your lawn and garden.

"There really isn't any downside to doing this. The alternative is to pay tree guys to come in ... When you get it explained, it's really silly that we do this — haul these leaves away, every year."

GREEN INVESTING

I'm new to investing and am doing some research. What are some green companies or stocks I should look into? Kristin of Vancouver

QUEEN OF GREEN

LINDSAY COULTER
GREEN@METRONews.CA

Let's start with the term. What you're searching for is called socially responsible investing (SRI). SRI is what you get when environmental, social and governance factors come together in the selection and management of investments.

SRI investments take into account environmental sustainability or stewardship, labour practices, human rights and corporate governance.

An excellent Canadian resource is the Social Investment Organization. It's a national membership-based organization that includes financial institutions, investment firms, financial advisors and various organizations and individuals interested in socially responsible investing.

Taking women from 'content to complete'

► Cancer survivor Michelle Peavy doing her best to empower women

TURNING POINT

TERESA KRUIZE
LIFE@METRONews.CA

"I came to a fork in the road and chose the fearless route."

Michelle Peavy has overcome many tough turning points in life to become an entrepreneur, speaker and singer, but her biggest challenge of all was conquering cancer.

Today, she's healthy and owns a corporate recruiting company with offices in Calgary, Houston and a third opening in Toronto.

As a singer, she has appeared on America's Got Talent, Jimmy Kimmel Live and is a longtime anthem singer for the NBA's Houston Rockets. Peavy will be launching her new CD in October.

"We have so much power and underestimate how much we can use. I want women to look deep within themselves and make a difference in their community."

The ALL Women Summit will be held in Toronto on Oct. 6. Michelle will be among the inspiring women there who will help you learn how you can live a life filled with intent, strength and action.

"It will be women mentoring women, offering tools and life strategies. I want them to move from a place of content to complete."

Join Michelle and choose the fearless route. Visit all-women.biz for more information.

Oilers blank Flames

Devan Dubnyk stopped all 30 shots he faced to lead the Edmonton Oilers to a 3-0 win over the Calgary Flames in pre-season play Sunday.

Linus Omark and Jordan Eberle had a goal and an assist each for Edmonton.

The Flames fell to 1-3-0 in pre-season play.

The Oilers also beat Calgary 2-1 on Saturday in Edmonton to emerge with wins in both games of the home-and-home series.

Shawn Horcoff also scored for the Oilers, who improved to 3-2-0 in exhibition action. Defenceman Taylor Fedun chipped in with a pair of assists.

Starting Calgary netminder Henrik Karlsson took the loss after making 11 saves through a period and a half of action.

Next meeting

The Flames and Oilers will next face off against each other on Oct. 18 at the Scotiabank Saddledome in Calgary's second home game of the regular season.

Thigpen explosive in Maritime shootout

► TiCat totals three TDs, 274 yards receiving ► Near-capacity Moncton crowd enjoys a second chance to host regular-season game

► Calgary Stampeder Brandon Smith chases Hamilton Tiger-Cat Marcus Thigpen yesterday at the University of Moncton campus in Moncton, N.B.

Marcus Thigpen made the most of his first start of the season as a Tiger-Cats receiver.

Thigpen caught two of Kevin Glenn's three touchdown passes and ran in a missed field goal as Hamilton took this year's Touchdown Atlantic game with a 55-36 victory over the Calgary Stampede yesterday.

The Ticats, playing as the home team, improved to 6-6 on the season while Calgary dropped to 7-5 after the league's second visit out East, which drew 20,153 to the University of Moncton campus.

Thigpen's highlight play came when he returned Rene Paredes' missed field goal 118 yards to give Hamilton a 34-21 lead heading into the final quarter. He finished with 274 yards receiving.

"I came into training camp this year playing receiver, so it was really nothing new, it was all about timing," said Thigpen.

"I finally got my opportunity to go out there and show what I can do. I take advantage of every opportunity I get."

Standings

- The loss dropped the Stamps into a tie with Edmonton for top spot in the West Division.
- Hamilton stays third in the East.

Patriots no longer Bills' bully

Hold on to your seats, the Buffalo Bills are showing they're for real.

Rian Lindell hit a 28-yard field goal as time expired to cap a stunning comeback for a 34-31 victory over the New England Patriots yesterday. The win snapped Buffalo's 15-game losing streak against the Patriots that dated to 2003, and sparked a wild celebration in which stadium officials guarded the goal posts to ensure fans didn't bring them down.

The Bills (3-0) won courtesy of yet another Ryan Fitzpatrick-led rally, overcoming a 21-0 second-quarter deficit. It was reminiscent of what the Bills did last week when they came back from down 21-3 to beat Oakland 38-35.

Tom Brady threw for 386 yards and four scores for New England (2-1) and set a league record for most yards passing over a three-game stretch, but matched a career-high four interceptions. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Around the NFL

In other action yesterday:

- The New York Giants (2-1) took advantage of the Philadelphia Eagles (1-2) with Michael Vick injured again. Eli Manning threw four touchdown passes, and the Giants beat the Eagles 29-16. Vick, who started after suffering a concussion last week, left with a broken right hand in the fourth quarter.

- Matthew Stafford threw for 378 yards and two TDs to rally the Lions (3-0) from a 20-0 deficit before Jason Hanson kicked a 32-yard field goal in overtime as Detroit beat the Minnesota Vikings (0-3) 26-23.
- Cam Newton didn't pass for a ton of yards, he simply found Greg Olsen over the middle for a 16-yard TD with 4:20 left to lift Carolina (1-2) to a 16-10 win over the Jacksonville Jaguars (1-2).

Today's horoscope

- ♈ Aries March 21-April 20 Don't look at challenges as things to be avoided but as things to be used for your benefit.
- ♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 Try to be enthusiastic about what you are being asked to do.
- ♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 What comes your way today will be pleasant, and what comes your way tomorrow will be out of this world.
- ♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 YMake an effort to patch up any minor disputes you may be having

- with partners and loved ones.
- ♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 23 You will be made the proverbial offer you cannot refuse either today and, yes, it's a pretty good deal.
- ♍ Virgo Aug. 24-Sept. 22 Stop worrying and start working.
- ♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Don't judge yourself by other people's standards because the simple fact is their standards are way below what yours should be.
- ♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Follow your passion wherever it may lead you.
- ♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec.
